Collagen Induction Therapy

MicroNeedling, also referred to as Collagen Induction Therapy, creates a pattern of micro-channels in the skin. Under the skin, the micro-channels initiate the body's natural healing process, causing an increased production of collagen and elastin. On the surface, the channels allow for the absorption of serums, such as Hyaluronic Acid and Human Growth Factors. The result is smoother, fresher, and more uniform skin.

MD Pen micro-needling treatments transform common skin problems, including acne scars, fine lines, hyperpigmentation, stretch marks, and poor texture, leaving skin smoother and firmer. Now, many skin imperfections that might have been treated with more aggressive Lasers or IPL, can be addressed with a series of safe, MD Pen skin needling treatments using your body's natural cellular regeneration. It's a safe way to tighten, smooth, and lift the skin. For all skin types.

For best results, 3-6 treatments are needed.
